

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Short History of the Settlement of Eaton.

SOME OF THE OLD-TIMERS

The Town Has Advanced Without a Halt From the Very Start.

No portion of that great "west" which lies between the Mississippi river and the Rocky Mountains so much reminds one of the older settled and prosperous agricultural regions of New York and Ohio as does the magnificent reach of productive upland stretching a dozen miles from the Cache la Poudre river and from Lone Tree valley westward for about the same distance. Here, twenty years ago, were the homes of the prairie dog, the owl and the coyote; here, today, is a material civilization—a civilization represented by substantial houses, groves, blooded cattle, well kept highways and comfortable surroundings—such as in the eastern states has cost a century of development, backed by an intellectual and moral culture of which even Americans may well be proud. Such a magnificent result has been possible only because the two main factors in the problem—natural surroundings and incoming people—were of the highest order.

The School Election.

Considerable interest was taken Monday in the election of a secretary of the school board. Several carriages were in use to bring out voters. Mrs. Mary I. Grant appeared to be the general favorite, receiving 106 votes to Mrs. A. K. Hill's 85.

After the polls closed a meeting was held and important questions discussed. It was decided to add an eleventh grade this year and a twelfth next year. Owing to the crowded condition of the schools, the voters of the district will be called upon to decide whether the district shall be bonded for $8,000 to erect a new building.
